ACOUSTIC UNDERGROUND CONCERT SERIES PRESENTS:

Mike Horton Saturday, August 7th, 8:00pm

Once kicked out of school for imitating an air raid siren, Texas singer/songwriter MIKE HORTON returns to the South Florida stage bringing with him all the sound effects, music, friends and songs he can pack into his guitar case. As a stand-up comic and actor, he's done radio, television and film. He has opened for Leonard Cohen, Dave Mason and his own favorite (imaginary) sidekick, the legendary Mr. Dee Minor.

While Mike's first love is song writing, with a degree in visual arts, his life has been filled with commercial video production both in front of the camera and behind the scenes. His varied and extensive career has provided grist for his pen and his creative mind repackages his experiences.

Val C. Wisecracker, our in-house funny gal, says Mike is one funny guy and she is very excited that we were able to book him. And we can all use a good laugh these days.

Mike will be joined for this show by Frederic Gabriel (blues harp), Josh Aberman (electric bass) and Susan Aberman (vocals).

OPENING ACT: ALLAN AUNAPU - Combine a first rate musician and a world class raconteur and you have a home town treasure.

Congratulations to Alexis and Karla, the Luna Star has won one more award to add to the two earned from Miami New Times: The Sun Post gave the Luna Star the best coffee bar beer selection for 2004.

Luna Star Café, 775 NE 125th Street, N. Miami, FL tel: 305-799-7123. Requested Contribution: $7.00 ($6.00 Members).

The Folk Club Of South Florida presents:

DISCOVER MIAMI

At the Shores Performing Arts Theater

Sponsored by Miami-Dade County and the City of Miami and produced by MusicFestMiami

Saturday, September 4th, 2004 – 1 to 7 P.M.

Free Admission

FEATURING:

John Blosser - Celtic Bridge

Grant Livingston - The New River Boys

The Coral Gables Chamber Symphony

Rod MacDonald - Raiford Starke

Carla Ulbrich - Amy Carol Webb

This outstanding show will be one of five presented at the same time on this day at venues around the County that will offer music of different ethnicities. This venue will offer music produced by descendants of European and Anglo settlers and immigrants. Others will feature Haitian, Latin, African American/Caribbean and Jewish music. Free Miami-Dade County busses will move people from one venue to another with talks on the buses on the history of the areas being visited. Call 305-373-0011 for reservations for the bus tours. Each venue will have food and crafts of that ethnicity.

Reserve now; limited bus seats. If you will be in town, don't miss this event. The Shores Performing Arts Theater is located at: 9806 NE Second Ave, Miami Shores, FL - 305-751-0562

Grant Livingston

Einstein and Gypsy Rose on a road trip, a guy who is way serious about eating pie, a French-speaking cat in a graveyard, armadillos, barnacles, an unleashed dog - you'll meet them all (and more) in the songs of Coconut Grove singer/songwriter Grant Livingston

THE PREZ SEZ... Open Board Meetings

By Barry J. White

If you are reading this and you live in Miami-Dade County you have probably made a conscious decision to accept, and to be a part of, this culturally diverse and interesting society. In which case you will want to take advantage of a free, repeat free, opportunity to experience as many as five different ethnicities. On September 4th Discover Miami (see page 1 for details) will take you by free bus from one neighborhood to another to enjoy their music, food and crafts. And, on the way, docents will give you historical information on the neighborhoods. It will be a full day. Music is scheduled at least from 1:00 P.M. to 7:00 P.M. (some will run later) and the buses will run starting at 12:30 P.M. The key to enjoying this adventure will be signing up early. Call 305-373-0011 now for reservations. This event is produced by MusicFestMiami and is sponsored by Miami-Dade County and by The City Of Miami; it will be a major happening.

The ethnicities to be highlighted this year are Latin, Haitian, African-American/Caribbean, Jewish and European/Anglo. Music which the descendants of settlers and immigrants write and perform today will be presented. The Folk Club Of South Florida is producing the European/Anglo venue at the Shores Performing Arts Theater, 9806 NE Second Ave in Miami Shores. And we are putting our best foot forward. A top notch line-up will perform a wide array of music from Broadway and Carnegie Hall to the Swanee and from Western range lands to military parade grounds.

We'll try to give visitors from other ethnic settings a taste of what has been going on in our music for the last four hundred years. Each artist and group will be stretching their own musical boundaries a little for this show and the result should be a familiar performer doing something you might not ordinarily hear.

So put this day on your calendar, make a reservation, and get ready To Discover Miami and see her in a very unique way. You will also be a part of the scenery and of some one else's cultural experience. Smile!

Our monthly Board Meetings are open to anyone who wants to come and kibbutz. You are welcome to comment on any issue being discussed. If you have an item you would like to put on the agenda please contact our Secretary Dorothy Parker before the meeting. Any new agenda item presented for discussion at the meeting would require a majority vote of the Board to be considered. We do follow Robert's Rules Of Order although he might be doing a few flip-flops in his subterranean abode during our meetings. In any event, everyone is welcome. Our next Meeting will be Monday, August 16th and 7:30 P.M. at the Sun Inn Restaurant, 3045 Biscayne Boulevard. Double check with Dorothy a few days before the meeting to be sure it has not been rescheduled. We eat and work; what a dedicated crew. Watch where you put those chop sticks.

OPEN HOUSE & SONG SWAP

The Folk Club of South Florida will have its next open house and song swap on Sunday, August 8, 2004 from 5:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. for all those who want to combine friendship and a party with music.

The song swap will be at the home of Alexander Czeisler, located in South Miami. Alexander's telephone numbers are: Home # 305-259-1785 and Cell # 305-505-7036. Please RSVP for the address and directions. You may bring your contribution to a pot luck dinner and any musical instruments you wish to play. (You don't have to be a musician to enjoy this event! Enjoy meeting and greeting friends and friends-in-waiting).

Grant Livingston has been a favorite at folk venues throughout Florida since the mid-eighties. Grant weaves history, environment, and social commentary through his songs, he has earned the title of Miami's Historian-in-Song. <http://www.grantlivingston.com>

Amy Carol Web

Amy Carol Webb is the "beloved song weaver." She is passionate, powerful, and poignant. Her joy is infectious, her songs gifts of literate, humorous, profound poems. www.amycarolwebb.com

Rod MacDonald

Rod MacDonald is a contemporary folk singer who began in the sixties coffee houses of Greenwich Village, Celtic word craft and protest writing. Social and political writing and love songs flow naturally and subtly from his pen as he delivers them with understated energy. <http://www.rodmacdonald.net>

Raiford Starke

Raiford Starke has emerged as one of South Florida's most entertaining musical artists. Combining blues, country, folk and rock and roll into one stunning repertoire, his hot picking and emotional singing have earned him praise from critics and fans alike. <http://www.raifordstarke.com/>

Carla Ulbrich

Carla Ulbrich might just be one of the most interesting and talented contemporary folk performers in the country today. Carla is a consummate musician and this saucy, witty singer /songwriter also happens to be a first rate wordsmith. Don't miss her. <http://www.carlau.com/>

PERFORMANCESTHE SOUTH FLORIDA BLUEGRASS ASSOCIATIONPresentsBLUEGRASS FRIDAYFeaturing:Groundspeed*Friday, August 13th - 8:00 P.M

If you missed the first show last month, forgive yourself. It was a full house - full of people and full of the best music around. So this month you have another chance to get in on the fun. Luna Star and Bluegrass are really meant for each other. The sound of GROUNDSPED is just great, the place is comfortable and the food and flowing refreshment are fine.

The Bluegrass Association is pleased to be able to share their music and this setting with members and non-members. But beware. Last month people just didn't want to leave. Alexis and Karla couldn't close up until the wee hours of the morning. Come early, stay late, enjoy it all.

ANNUAL LABOR DAY WEEKEND GALA SWAMP WALKS

Presents:

Valerie C. Wisecracker & Cindy Hackney
September 4 - 6, 2004

Valerie C. Wisecracker performs at one of her favorite events of the year. Come join Clyde, Niki and their gang to celebrate the environment this Labor Day Weekend. They will have a special exhibit, food, and of course swamp walks.

"Valerie C. Wisecracker is the number one Americana artist in the state of Florida. Her live show is so good, it should be examined as a course of study at any major university. As a songwriter of real Florida folk songs, few alive can compete with her. Please catch her act whenever and wherever you can and mark it down as history if you are lucky enough to be present at her show. She and her songs are the real thing!"

SUNRISE CIVIC CENTER Folk and Blues Series

If you've never been to the Sunrise Civic Center Theatre, especially for a concert, you are in for a treat! It's a state of the art venue, and seats only 296. It really is intimate and warm for both performers and audience. Check it out by going to the folk and blues series during August and September. Tickets are only $10 each, or $9 each if you get the subscription to three events. Call the box office for seating info at 954-747-4646 between 10 and 2 on Tues, Wed, Fri or Sat. Cash or check only. The theatre is located between Hiatus and Nob Hill on the south side of Oakland Park Blvd. in Sunrise. Don't miss this great lineup.

Albert Castiglia

Friday, August 20, 2004 at 8 p.m.

You haven't heard the blues until you've heard guitarist, Albert Castiglia. This amazing, blazing young talent from Miami and his band put on an electrifying and passionate blues show, including many originals, that will move you inside and out!

Dave Nachmanoff

Friday, August 27, at 8 p.m.

Winner of more than a dozen songwriting competitions, California folk troubadour, Nachmanoff, delivers heartfelt tunes with an acoustic style that combines the charm of Arlo Guthrie with the driving energy of Bruce Springsteen. You will be captivated by this virtuoso guitarist and his poetic songs of people and their uncommon lives.

NICK ANNIS Notes from the Road

Traveling musician and songwriter Nick Annis writes about life and musical inspiration on the road. Email him at: nick@nickannis.com

On a poorly planned trip to New Jersey (is there another kind?) with a list of venues and a stack of fliers for the upcoming show July 30th at the Minstrel Coffeehouse. I stop on the way at The Point in Philadelphia to play the open mic, but they're hosting a special event not listed on their website, so I head on north to The Corner Tavern in New Brunswick, for Spook Handy's 952nd consecutive open mic. Besides Spook and myself there are but two other performers, and we all take long sets and get up to play again. Interesting, but still plenty of fliers left.

The next day brings some of the worst weather I've driven through, heading to Stanhope to play the Stanhope House open mic. Endless traffic, guided by a Mapquest printout that may be accurate on some other astral plane, but is fairly useless in this one. I call for better directions and listen to a vacation announcement, owners will be back in three days.

A wise man told me once there are three things you need to do to be successful in the music business.

1. Get an agent.
2. Get an agent.
3. Get an agent.

But I don't need no stinkin agent. I stop and buy a New Jersey map, figuring it to have better detail than my Atlas. I open it to find it is the same useless map, only larger. So now I can still be lost, but I won't have to squint.

I check my Mapquest for The Dancing Goat in South Orange. I run the course on my map. I call the venue to make sure they're open and that there's an open mic tonight. As I head in, there's a few reference points that jump at me. The restaurants that sell goat meat. The billboards that say, "Use a Gun, You're Done", and "Don't abandon your Baby".

The Dancing Goat turns out to be a venue for jazz and hip-hop, and I stare at the posters in the window, imagining my flier there, and just walk back to the car.

I look at my lists, and see Krough's Restaurant in Sparta, about 15 miles in the direction I just came from. I run through my options. I could stay and do hip-hop versions of Dave Carter songs.

"I will climb the rise at daybreak when they open up the Fina,

And bellow like the thunderdrum for Funky Cold Medina."

I could go to Kroughs and check them out. But I'm done. This whole trip has been a poor plan, executed flawlessly. It is time to stop the bleeding. Back on the Jersey Turnpike South, back to DC.

MICHAEL STOCK

on Folk and Acoustic Music

WLRN radio presenter, Michael Stock's monthly column about South Florida's folk and acoustic music scene. Listen to Michael's show every Sunday from 1:00 to 4:00 PM on WLRN, 91.3 MHz. Contact Michael at : 305-995-2220, or email: mstock@wlrn.org

The reason I love folk music is because I understand it. It includes a wide variety of music (just about everything except "pop"), but what I like most about it are the political songs. Songs that opens up your mind, encourages you to looks at new perspectives and might even challenge your way of thinking. For some folks, it is too much of a challenge. Every time I answer the phone after I play one of these, lets say "Fahrenheit 9/11" fan type folk songs, I worry it is a complaint. The ratio is about 1 to 3, but those few complaints hurt.

The presidential election is just a few months away and I have been getting a lot of political music for airplay on my radio show. As much as I like these songs, I don't think they persuade you to change your vote. All the political music I get is anti-Bush and anti-war. You are not going to hear these songs anywhere else. I presume that at least a quarter of my listeners are fans of President Bush and at least another quarter would not like to hear anything political (there are at least another quarter who don't want to hear bluegrass, but that's another column). This is not a new debate, Sing-Out magazine had a revolt from the non political folkies in the early 60's.

It was just a couple of weeks ago a listener called and asked why I don't play any songs that show the other side of the war in Iraq, and I said the only songs I know pro war were written to defeat Hitler. Another listener was amazed that I had the courage to play these songs. I, personally could take the heat, but our licensee is a little more sensitive. Of course, no matter what songs I play, political or not, it has to be good. That, is what I believe, will keep you listening.

On the radio this coming month, I plan to interview 3-time finalist in the South Florida Folk Festival Songwriting Contest, Bob Malone. Also, Bob Lind, a seasoned musician who had success a number of years ago with "Elusive Butterfly". There are also a couple of quality specials I will try to fit in, one examining the archives of Alan Lomax, and another looking at Cuban music in Florida. And I will always consider requests.
